

Dissertation Fellowship

Outstanding graduate students who have reached the stage of preparing their doctoral dissertations may apply on a competitive basis to receive a Dissertation Fellowship through the College of Arts and Sciences. There are a limited number of these Fellowships which entail no teaching or other form of obligation. They are intended to assist advanced doctoral candidates in the preparation of their dissertations. These Fellowships may be used to supplement other forms of financial support a student receives, or they may be awarded to students who are otherwise unfunded.

CAS Dissertation Fellowship Recipients

2008 - Laveena Muley
Gregory Soja

2013 - David Stewart

2014 - Scott Simpson

2015 - Joshua Wallace

2016 - Sidney Coombs